The DC STEM Fair is operated by the DC STEM Network. The DC STEM Network is a program of the Carnegie Academy for Science Education (CASE) and the Office of the State Superintendent of Education. The Network is a partnership across industry, community-based organizations, schools, and stem-rich institutions that work to increase the quality of STEM education in the District of Columbia.

I understand that participants of the DC STEM Fair may be photographed, video-recorded, or taped for education or news reports, videos, web/internet reports, and/or other promotional materials for the DC STEM Network, their parent organization, CASE and Carnegie Science, or DC STEM Fair sponsors. I further give permission for my child's image to be included in such promotional materials.
